

Jack Ma to give public lecture at UoN

Chinese business magnate, Jack Ma is scheduled to give a public lecture at the University of Nairobi on July 20, 2017.

Jack Ma is the founder and executive chairman of the Chinese e-commerce Alibaba Group, a family of internet-based businesses.

Ma will be in Kenya on two-day visit to Kenya, to share entrepreneurial insights with the country's young people.

Last year, Ma was named special advisor for youth entrepreneurship by the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD) for Youth Entrepreneurship and Small Business. Ma is also said to be the richest man in Asia with a fortune valued at nearly $30 billion.

The public lecture will be at the Chandaria Centre for Performing Arts at the UoN towers, Main Campus.
